Ray Enters Plea Of Guilty To 1968 Slaying Of King

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—James Earl Ray pleaded guilty today to murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and agreed to accept a 99-year sentence in the Tennessee State Penitentiary.

He said, however, that he did not agree with a theory—apparently held by his own lawyer—that there was no conspiracy to assassinate King. But, he said, "I agree with the stipulation" to plead guilty.

"I've never had hopes of anything except . . . to save this man's life," said Ray's lawyer, Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex. "It took me months to prove to myself . . . that it was not a conspiracy."

Five witnesses then testified to the actual fact of King's slaying, at the Lorraine Motel here April 4, 1968. This is necessary under Tennessee law in a case where the death penalty could be involved.

Then, the jury must retire to go through the formality of setting the 99-year sentence.

The jury was chosen from a venire picked two weeks ago, but the jurors themselves had no idea, a court spokesman said, that they would be assigned to the Ray case until court began this morning.

Criminal Court Judge Preston Battle asked Ray, who was called to the stand, whether he understood that his guilty plea

Miner Freed From Cave-In

8-Day Ordeal Comes To End

LARK, Utah (AP)—Tough, grizzled William "Buck" Jones relaxed in a hospital bed today, freed from the tiny cell of rock that held him captive deep in a Utah mountain for eight days.

Jones, 61-year-old father of 11, was brought to safety Sunday night by rescuers who had tunneled tediously through 25 feet of rock to his cubicle.

After an emotional reunion with his big family at the mine entrance, Jones was whisked 20 miles to a Salt Lake City hospital for examination and rest. He looked weary, but obviously was in high spirits.

"I want a shower!" he shouted. "I think I need it." The echo rang down the hospital corridor.

He got a bath instead. Then he shaved himself, had a dinner of ham and eggs and watched a television replay of his rescue.

A hospital spokesman said there would be no immediate interviews.

It was a tearful, joyful scene when the tunnel train carrying Jones to safety reached the surface after a 4½-mile ride from the shaft in which he was trapped by a cave-in March 1.

A cheer went up from more than 300 persons crowding the tunnel opening, including Jones' entire family. Her eyes glistening, Mrs. Jones cried, "Buck, I love you!" His children shouted, "Hi, dad!"

"Hello, mother," the weary, bearded Jones said to his wife. Then the two spent a private moment in the covered mine car before fellow miners carried him to an ambulance.

"His kisses were very dusty," said daughter Velma Jones. Mrs. Jones said he was "very tired" but had laughed and talked with her.

Landfill Meet Slated By Solons

Pickaway County Commissioners have scheduled a meeting 1 p.m. Tuesday with Washington Twp. trustees and a committee of residents concerning the proposed sanitary landfill.

Commissioner Dick Tootle will chair the meeting which will be held in the Common Pleas Court room of the Court House.

The board of commissioners is studying the county owned land behind the old county infirmary as a site for a sanitary landfill.

Tomorrow's meeting has been termed an "informational meeting" by the commissioners. The operation of the proposed landfill will be fully explained to the trustees and the committee.

Red China Says Soviets Behind Clash

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China charged today that the Soviet Union provoked the Manchurian border clash March 2 to divert the attention of Russians who are massing for a "revolution" against "Soviet fascist rule."

Some Western analysts have suggested that Peking provoked the bloody fight for a similar reason—to make the Chinese forget internal dissensions and rally behind Mao Tse-tung by raising the specter of a "Soviet threat."

Bolstering this view was an announcement from Peking Sunday that Red Chinese militiamen and peasants are patrolling with frontier guards "in preparedness for war."

Even Chinese peasants who carry manure to the fields consider it "a counterattack against the Soviet revisionists," the broadcast added.

Press reports in Hong Kong and London said Peking has put 5 million men on an armed alert. The official Chinese announcement gave no exact figures.

Each side has accused the other of starting the March 2 battle on a disputed island in the Ussuri River, which separates the Soviet Far East and Manchuria. Moscow said 31 of its soldiers were killed and 14 were wounded. China has not released casualty figures.

Miller Pushing Ohio Cemetery

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Clarence E. Miller, R-Ohio, has reopened his campaign to establish a national cemetery in southeastern Ohio.

Miller said today he is pressing for enactment of legislation he sponsored in the last session of Congress.

"It is the right of every veteran and his dependents to be buried in a national place of honor," Miller said. "Yet in the case of Ohio veterans this right is being effectively denied because no national cemetery exists in the entire state."

County Commissioners to Judge Guy Cline of the Pickaway County Juvenile and Probate Courts

COUNTY Commissioners today received a letter from Judge Guy Cline of the Pickaway County juvenile and probate courts.

In the letter Judge Cline pointed out the need for a juvenile detention center in the county.

He requested that adequate facilities for detention and training of juveniles be made available in the county.

Commissioners accepted the bid of Wes Edstrom Motors for two pickup trucks for the county engineering department.

Edstrom's bid of $2,992.30 plus two used trucks on trade was the lowest submitted. Other bidders were Harden Chevrolet, Kenny Hannan Ford and H & S Service Inc.

Leo J. Conway Gets State Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Leo J. Conway, 62, retired Army colonel, today was appointed chief of the division of criminal activities in the attorney general's office. He succeeds David L. Kessler, who has returned to private practice.

Conway of Columbus, has been in the attorney general's office for five years. He headed up the habeas corpus section located within the division of criminal activities.

Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown, who announced Conway's appointment, said he expects to name another man with more trial experience to assist Conway in the prosecution of certain cases.

Artillery Fire Kills Top Egyptian General

TEL AVIV (AP)—After two days of heavy shelling, the Suez Canal was reported quiet again today. Egypt prepared a hero's funeral for its army chief of staff, Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad, who was fatally wounded by an Israeli shell Sunday.

"They are burying their general at noon, so we don't expect trouble today," an Israeli military source said.

U.N. observers blamed Egypt for the start of the artillery duel Saturday. They reported to U.N. headquarters that they observed the Egyptians firing from one to 32 minutes before the Israelis opened up along the blocked waterway.

Israeli shells hit Egypt's oil refinery at Suez for the fourth time since the 1967 war, and the Israelis said a petrochemical plant and oil storage tanks were still burning today. Egypt said three tanks were set afire.

Israel said one of its Piper Cubs was shot down, three Israelis including the pilot were killed and 14 were wounded.

Egypt said three of its men were killed and 13 wounded and it lost a MIG jet. Israel said the MIG pilot was captured. Egypt also claimed its forces brought down an Israeli Mystere jet, but Israel denied this.

Laird Claims Big Offensive Not Successful

SAIGON (AP)—Hundreds of enemy troops ambushed about 300 South Vietnamese paratroopers, killing 30 of the government soldiers and wounding 105 in a two-day battle that was still going on late today, the Saigon government said.

Financiers Decide New Gold Rush Not Emergency

BASEL, Switzerland (AP)—Western Europe's central bankers decided Sunday the French franc's new troubles don't require international action.

The savage battle said was one of five major fights reported in the past 24 hours—at three points near the Cambodian border and to the north and south of Saigon. The dead included 31 Americans and at least 127 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, allied spokesmen said.

After their regular monthly meeting, several of the bankers said the French government has enough gold to cope with the current flow of money beyond its borders.

The Viet Cong also shelled more than 35 towns and allied bases during the night as the enemy's spring offensive continued in its third week. U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told newsmen as he left Saigon after a four-day visit that the offensive is a "calculated escalation of the war." But he said it "has not been successful" and the rocket attacks which have been made on Saigon were not significant.

They also said France has not asked for help under emergency arrangements the bankers made last month to help countries with money troubles.

Laird would not reveal the recommendations he is carrying back to President Nixon, except to say that he would request additional funds to strengthen the South Vietnamese armed services. At Da Nang Sunday, he had indicated the amount would be about $70 million.

However, the present uncertainty about the franc will not be resolved until the French government and the country's labor unions settle their differences over wages. The unions have called a 24-hour general strike Tuesday.

The secretary said some American troops would be replaced in due course by South Vietnamese as the latter's armed forces grew stronger. But he would not give any timetable.

The unions are seeking a 12 per cent wage increase. The government is resisting such a large boost would make French exports so expensive the value of the franc would have to be lowered so French business could compete in international markets.

Devaluation of the franc might force Britain and the United States to cut the value of their currencies. But in a more serious money crisis last fall President Charles deGaulle refused to devalue.

Anticipation of devaluation cost French national reserves $89.7 million in February as Frenchmen bought other currencies abroad for safety. The losses of gold and foreign currency were reported accelerating this month, but the De Gaulle government still has billions to draw on, including a special fund set up by the central bankers last fall. It hasn't been touched.

Expect Nixon To Cut Down Plans For Missile System

WASHINGTON (AP)—An expected move by President Nixon to scale down plans for the Sentinel program may lessen opposition to the antimissile defense system, especially in Congress.

Nixon studied the controversial antiballistic missile program over the weekend in Florida and is scheduled to announce a decision early this week to employ a modified "thin" system with perhaps fewer missile sites than originally planned and further away from major population centers.

Chill Blasts Sweep South, Mid-U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A blast of arctic air continued to chill the South today and produced unseasonably low temperatures across the nation's mid-section.

Laird reiterated an earlier statement that continuation of rocket and mortar attacks on Saigon constituted a violation of an understanding with North Vietnam under which the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam on Nov. 1.

"If they continue," he said, "an appropriate response, in either a diplomatic or a military way, will be made."

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong pushed its spring offensive into its third week Sunday, and enemy troops dealt a battalion of South Vietnamese paratroopers and a platoon of American air cavalrymen heavy losses in two border clashes. Another American ambush patrol suffered serious losses when Viet Cong troops outmaneuvered it and sprung their own ambush.

The latest of a series of winter storms that have plagued the Southern Atlantic states was accompanied by icy north winds and travelers' warnings were posted from the southern Appalachians to northeastern North Carolina. Cold wave warnings were issued for scattered areas from northern Kentucky to the South Carolina coast.

Investigate Blaze In Clermont County

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—The state fire marshal's office is investigating a blaze that burned down the grandstand at the Clermont County Fairgrounds near here Sunday.

Fire officials said it would cost between $100,000 and $200,000 to replace the wooden structure.

The midcontinent shivered as the frigid siege continued and temperatures were generally well below freezing. Scattered snow flurries dusted the area from the Northern Plains to the Great Lakes.

Christine, with her mother at her bedside, appeared to be slightly improved around midnight Sunday. Over the weekend, doctors had detected what Southwick described as a "marked weakness of heart action."

Broadus, in southeastern Montana, reported that 1 inch of new snow brought its total accumulation to 9 inches.

A storm system over the southern Rockies and southwestern desert region gathered force and snow and strong, gusty winds were expected, travelers' warnings were up for the mountains of New Mexico and northern Arizona.

Showers soaked the lower sections of the Southwest, while the Pacific Northwest relaxed under unusually clear and tranquil weather.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 below zero at Bozeman, Mont., to 64 at Key West, Fla.

Analyze Powder From Drug Raid

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—An analysis is being made of a "green powdery substance" seized by police early Saturday when they broke up a party of juveniles.

Officers questioned 13 juveniles ranging in age from 13 to 17. Five of the teen-agers were girls. All were released to their parents.

Police said the material may be marijuana or an asthma drug that can be burned and inhaled to create a feeling of being "high."

Expect Nixon To Cut Down Plans For Missile System

WASHINGTON (AP) — An expected move by President Nixon to scale down plans for the Sentinel program may lessen opposition to the antimissile defense system, especially in Congress.

Nixon studied the controversial antiballistic missile program over the weekend in Florida and is scheduled to announce a decision early this week to employ a modified "thin" system with perhaps fewer missile sites than originally planned and further away from major population centers.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said in an interview that a cutback in the proposed number of missile sites "will satisfy some people" in Congress who are worried about the cost of the proposed ABM program.

Critics fear the system once started will grow both in cost and intent from one originally estimated at $5 billion to protect against Chinese Communist rockets to a $40 billion system geared against the Soviet Union. They see this as a major escalation of the arms race.

Even supporters of the Sentinel admit the high cost, that it would take three years to build and would be capable of intercepting only small numbers of unsophisticated intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Mansfield is one of a powerful group of senators, which includes Edward M. Kennedy, D-Ill., who are pressing for enactment of legislation he sponsored in the last session of Congress.

"It is the right of every veteran and his dependents to be buried in a national place of honor," Miller said. "Yet in the case of Ohio veterans this right is being effectively denied because no national cemetery exists in the entire state."

Girl Heart Patient Dies In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Tenderly embraced in the arms of her mother, 6-year-old Christine Corbin died early today in Children's Hospital, bringing to an end the young girl's valiant struggle to survive heart transplant surgery.

Hospital Administrator Robert Southwick, who gave the time of death as 4:10 a.m., said that doctors at first thought the girl's body had rejected the heart she received Feb. 8, but this later appeared to be an uncertainty.

Southwick said Christine, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Corbin of suburban Highpoint, may have died due to a reaction to drugs which had been used to fight rejection.

He said a formal medical statement would be issued later today.

Christine, with her mother at her bedside, appeared to be slightly improved around midnight Sunday. Over the weekend, doctors had detected what Southwick described as a "marked weakness of heart action."

Following Christine's death, Southwick had said that the "heart rejection phenomenon . . . came with dramatic suddenness."

Keeping Score On The Rainfall

TEL AVIV (AP) — After two days of heavy shelling, the Suez Canal was reported quiet again today. Egypt prepared a hero's funeral for its army chief of staff, Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad, who was fatally wounded by an Israeli shell Sunday.

"They are burying their general at noon, so we don't expect trouble today," an Israeli military source said.

U.N. observers blamed Egypt for the start of the artillery duel Saturday. They reported to U.N. headquarters that they observed the Egyptians firing from one to 32 minutes before the Israelis opened up along the blocked waterway.

Analyze Powder From Drug Raid

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — An analysis is being made of a "green powdery substance" seized by police early Saturday when they broke up a party of juveniles.

Officers questioned 13 juveniles ranging in age from 13 to 17. Five of the teen-agers were girls. All were released to their parents.

Police said the material may be marijuana or an asthma drug that can be burned and inhaled to create a feeling of being "high."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police today said a 39-year-old landlady has been charged with second-degree murder in the stabbing death of one of her roomers.

Julie Foster Morgan was charged in the Sunday death of James Henry Eichelberger, 40. Detectives said the stabbing occurred when Mrs. Morgan told Eichelberger she wanted him to move out.

Artillery Fire Kills Top Egyptian General

Israeli shells hit Egypt's oil refinery at Suez for the fourth time since the 1967 war, and the Israelis said a petrochemical plant and oil storage tanks were still burning today. Egypt said three tanks were set afire.

Israel said one of its Piper Cubs was shot down, three Israelis including the pilot were killed and 14 were wounded.

Egypt said three of its men were killed and 13 wounded and it lost a MIG jet. Israel said the MIG pilot was captured. Egypt also claimed its forces brought down an Israeli Mystere jet, but Israel denied this.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said Riad had flown by helicopter to Ismailia Sunday and was observing the artillery duel with a group of officers when the shell landed close to him. Others in the group were only slightly injured, but the 50-year-old general died shortly after he was taken to the Ismailia hospital.

Riad was Egypt's second-ranking soldier after the defense minister, Gen. Mohammed Fawzi. President Gamal Abdel Nasser posthumously awarded him Egypt's highest military decoration, the Star of Honor. Riad became chief of staff in the shakeup that followed the purging of the late Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer on charges of plotting against Nasser after the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Riad had commanded Arab forces on the Jordanian front during the 1967 hostilities under a joint Egyptian-Jordanian defense agreement.

Cairo said the firing began Saturday after Egyptian forces saw "many preparations on the east bank of the canal that included the setting up of rockets and the gathering of tanks" which "indicated the enemy's intention to commit an act of aggression." The first artillery

Local Ceremony Marks Issue Of Legion Anniversary Stamp

America's largest veterans organization and its many members in Circleville will receive a tribute from Uncle Sam next week when the United States Post Office issues a new 6-cent commemorative stamp honoring The American Legion in its observance of its 50th anniversary.

Local Commander Ralph E. Wallace of Hall-Adkins Post 134 will officiate at special ceremonies, 9 a.m. Monday at the local postoffice, marking the Legion's golden anniversary and the first day of sale of the commemorative stamp.

Postmaster Charles H. Walters will present the first sheets of the new 6-cent stamp available in Circleville for the first time on that date. A "pane" of 50 stamps will be sold to Commander Wallace who will present them to Dr. Walter F. Heine, local stamp collector, who is World War I member of the post.

In issuing this new stamp, the postoffice department is saluting the founding of The American Legion, March 15-17, 1919, in Paris, France. The Legion was established on that date during a caucus of representatives of the various outfits of the World War I American Expeditionary Force. Today, American Legion membership totals more than 2.6 million veterans of World Wars I and II, Korea and Vietnam. Post No. 134 is one of more than 16,000 community organizations of the Legion throughout the United States and in several overseas countries and territories.

AN eagle dominates the design of the Legion commemorative stamp. Artist Robert Hallock of Newton, Conn., has adapted a portion of the national bird on the great seal of the United States for the red, white, blue and black vertical stamp. The eagle clutches an olive branch, the heraldic symbol of peace.

At the top of the stamp, in red, is "American Legion." Beside the eagle's wing, in blue, is "50 Years." Beneath the olive branch, in red, is "Veterans as Citizens." Across the bottom, in blue, is "U.S. Postage 6 Cents."

Nelsonville's News Blackout Comes To End

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Nelsonville mayor Earl Hilleary today lifted a news "blackout" on court and police records imposed last Friday.

Roy Cross, state editor of The Athens Messenger, said the blackout apparently was imposed as a part of a running feud between Hilleary and The Messenger's Nelsonville correspondent Wilbur Mender.

Cross reported that Hilleary called him Sunday night and said the ban was all a misunderstanding.

The observance of its 50th Birthday in March is one of the highlights of a 15-month, nationwide golden anniversary of The American Legion, beginning with its 50th National Convention last fall in New Orleans, La., and extending through Veterans Day Nov. 11, 1969.

Gasco Lady Slated For Rotary Meet

JOY WASHBURN

Miss Joy Washburn, public relations representative for Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., will transform a 17th century castle into an ultra-modern "House That Gas Built" with a single wave of a "magic" wand as she speaks before the Rotary Club at noon Thursday in the L-K Restaurant, Circleville.

It's all in fun, of course, and just Miss Washburn's way of graphically illustrating the contributions of the natural gas industry in general — and her own company, Columbia Gas of Ohio, in particular — to our rapid progress in modern living.

Miss Washburn will be dressed from head to toe in a fashionable wardrobe made from natural gas for her talk, and will display and discuss many of the newest home furnishings and building materials that have been developed through the use of gas — as a fuel, a tool or a raw material.

She also will explain the unique process, called "petrochemistry," that produced many of these modern miracle fabrics and materials.

Touching on other areas of gas company research and development, Miss Washburn will describe the key role of underground storage in meeting ever increasing demands for gas in Ohio, and how it provides more than half the gas needed on cold winter days to meet the heating demands of nearly 900,000 customers served by Columbia Gas of Ohio.

Before closing her talk, Miss Washburn again will call on her powers of prestidigitation to transport her audience into the future for a glimpse of what the wonders of science have in store for the homes of tomorrow. One of the most exciting things they will hear about is a fuel cell, no larger than a small suitcase, that someday may produce all a home's electricity from gas so that every home energy need — cooking, heating, cooling and electrical power — will be supplied by a single fuel — natural gas.

Miss Washburn, of Columbus, is a graduate of Jackson High School and Ohio University. A former Miss South Central Ohio in the Miss America Contest and first runner-up in Ohio in the National College Queen Contest, she was head majorette of the Ohio University Marching Band for three years. She also has worked as a model, majorette instructor, life guard and swimming instructor. She was director of public relations at Urbana College, Urbana, O., before going with the gas company and is listed in "Outstanding Young Women of America."

Ray Enters . . . Ohio Assembly To Get Safety Bill

meant he waived all rights to appeal. He also was asked if the decision to plead guilty was his own and of his own free will.

"I agree with the stipulation," Ray said, and then told the judge he wanted to add something.

Asked what it was, Ray said he wanted to go on record as saying he did not agree with "the theory that there was no conspiracy."

In Atlanta, Ga., the Rev. Martin Luther King, Sr., father of the slain civil rights leader, said he had no comment on Ray's plea. Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain man, was reported to be out of the city and not immediately available.

Testimony in Ray's trial today began simply to establish the fact that King was killed. Five witnesses were called, in this order:

—The Rev. Samuel B. Kyles, a Memphis Baptist minister with whom King was to have had supper on the eve of his death.

—Chauncey Eskridge of Chicago, a lawyer and close friend of the civil rights leader.

—Dr. Jerry Francisco, the Shelby County Coroner, who discussed the single rifle wound which King received.

—Inspector N. E. Zachary, chief Memphis homicide officer.

—Robert Jensen, in charge of the Memphis FBI office.

If the jury agrees to the 99-year sentence, and there are indications it will, Ray could be eligible for parole in 33 years.

The state previously said it would demand the death penalty, but the state's electric chair has not been used since 1961.

Give Victims Of 'Bugging' New Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Criminal defendants whose conversations or "premises" were bugged by federal agents have a right to examine government transcripts and logs, the Supreme Court ruled 5 to 3 today.

This includes government records relating to national security matters. The Justice Department has argued strenuously against such action.

The point of the examination by defense attorneys is to determine if prosecution was built on illegal eavesdropping.

The government already had conceded its obligation to disclose illegal bugging if the bugging helped the prosecution. But it maintained this examination should be done by a federal judge—not by the defendant's lawyers.

The court, in an opinion by Justice Byron R. White, a former Justice Department official, disagreed. He said if the bugging hearings "are to be more than a formality and vetting (defendants) not left entirely to reliance on government testimony there should be turned over to them the records of those overheard conversations which the government was not entitled to use in building its case against them."

Joined with White were Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Potter Stewart.

Justices Hugo L. Black, John M. Harlan and Abe Fortas dissented. Justice Thurgood Marshall did not participate, presumably because of his recent Justice Department service.

Firemen Called When Light Shorts

Damage was estimated at $5 to the fixture by firemen.

Boosters To Meet

Circleville Band Boosters will meet 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the high school to discuss new uniforms.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposed Department of Public Safety gets top billing this week as the 108th General Assembly enters its 10th week tonight.

Introduction of the much publicized proposal has been predicted for weeks but its appearance soon is almost a certainty.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, gave the bill to Rep. Robert E. Levitt, R-91 Canton, for introduction Friday.

Levitt says the bill has "a great deal of merit" and that he would study it over the weekend to decide if he wants the honor of introducing it in the General Assembly.

The Ohio Crime Commission, in a report expected to go to the legislature Friday, opposes being transferred from the attorney general's office to the new agency.

The commission will also recommend the attorney general's office retain control over the Division of Criminal Activities and the Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Crimes.

"There are always some people against any kind of change involving their future or a program in which they are involved," said Levitt, shrugging off the opposition.

The bill, if passed, will put the Ohio Highway Patrol under the jurisdiction of the new department. The patrol now is in the Department of Highway Safety, which would pass out of existence.

Rep. Anthony Russo, D - 43 Cleveland, and nine other Democrats plan to introduce a resolution asking Congress to repeal its planned freeze on welfare payments.

The federal freeze, to go into effect July 1, would keep federal aid to families with dependent children from being raised. Sponsors of the resolution contend it will cut off 46,500 Ohio children from much needed assistance.

A bill to permit abortions in certain cases will get its first hearing before the House Health and Welfare Committee Tuesday.

Rep. John Galbraith R - 75 Maumee, author of the measure, says he is optimistic about its chances of passage.

"I have been surprised at the outpouring of favorable letters I and other members of the House have received," Galbraith said.

The bill advocates abortions be legalized for victims of rape and for mothers whose life would be endangered by childbirth.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Field tests in England have convinced the U.S. Disarmament Agency that small international inspection teams could safeguard a future arms control pact "without compromising the national security of the country under inspection."

During Exercise First Look small inspection teams monitored the activities of about 30,000 British troops in a 2,000 square miles area west of London last year.

It was a joint U.S.-British test, with the $2.4 million cost shared by the two nations.

The agency reported Sunday the tests shed new light on inspection techniques.

Officials said the experiment showed that information provided by a small inspection organization, together with data from other sources, would "give reasonable assurance that an agreement on levels of forces was being observed."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young college graduates training to be postal executives will have a chance to run some post offices for several months as a result of the new merit system being implemented by the Nixon administration.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount announced Sunday that professional postal managers will be temporary replacements for acting postmasters who were not given permanent appointments this year.

Blount said that during the four to six months it takes to select permanent postmasters the young management trainees can give leadership to the offices and get operating experience at the same time.

One trainee has been selected already and nine more will be chosen this month. As many as 30 may be put in the field eventually.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pay raises totaling $3 billion for the coming fiscal year are shaping up for the military.

The Nixon administration, keeping a promise made last month by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, will move soon to boost military pay about $1.7 billion in the year starting July 1.

This will be added to a $1.8 billion increase under legislation already enacted.

New scales are intended to put service pay in line with civilian salaries as a step toward reducing the reliance on the draft. While servicemen will be getting more money, they will be losing some special non-taxable allowances.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. John A. Schnittker, former undersecretary of agriculture, says Congress should look into putting a limitation on government payments to farmers.

Schnittker said Sunday that this was his viewpoint during the latter years of the Johnson administration, but he did not express it publicly because it would have been contrary to Democratic policy.

Former Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman strongly opposed any ceilings on direct farm payments.

Schnittker is an agricultural economist now with the Alfred P. Sloan School of Management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Local Ceremony Marks Issue Of Legion Anniversary Stamp

America's largest veterans organization and its many members in Circleville will receive a tribute from Uncle Sam next week when the United States Post Office issues a new 6-cent commemorative stamp honoring The American Legion in its observance of its 50th anniversary.

Local Commander Ralph E. Wallace of Hall-Adkins Post 134 will officiate at special ceremonies, 9 a.m. Monday at the local postoffice, marking the Legion's golden anniversary and the first day of sale of the commemorative stamp.

Postmaster Charles H. Walters will present the first sheets of the new 6-cent stamp available in Circleville for the first time on that date. A "pane" of 50 stamps will be sold to Commander Wallace who will present them to Dr. Walter F. Heine, local stamp collector, who is World War I member of the post.

In issuing this new stamp, the postoffice department is saluting the founding of The American Legion, March 15-17, 1919, in Paris, France. The Legion was established on that date during a caucus of representatives of the various outfits of the World War I American Expeditionary Force. Today, American Legion membership totals more than 2.6 million veterans of World Wars I and II, Korea and Vietnam. Post No. 134 is one of more than 16,000 community organizations of the Legion throughout the United States and in several overseas countries and territories.

AN eagle dominates the design of the Legion commemorative stamp. Artist Robert Hallock of Newton, Conn., has adapted a portion of the national bird on the great seal of the United States for the red, white, blue and black vertical stamp. The eagle clutches an olive branch, the heraldic symbol of peace.

At the top of the stamp, in red, is "American Legion." Beside the eagle's wing, in blue, is "50 Years." Beneath the olive branch, in red, is "Veterans as Citizens." Across the bottom, in blue, is "U.S. Postage 6 Cents."

Nelsonville's News Blackout Comes To End

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Nelsonville mayor Earl Hilleary today lifted a news "blackout" on court and police records imposed last Friday.

Roy Cross, state editor of The Athens Messenger, said the blackout apparently was imposed as a part of a running feud between Hilleary and The Messenger's Nelsonville correspondent Wilbur Mender.

Cross reported that Hilleary called him Sunday night and said the ban was all a misunderstanding.

Gasco Lady Slated For Rotary Meet

JOY WASHBURN

Miss Joy Washburn, public relations representative for Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., will transform a 17th century castle into an ultra-modern "House That Gas Built" with a single wave of a "magic" wand as she speaks before the Rotary Club at noon Thursday in the L-K Restaurant, Circleville.

It's all in fun, of course, and just Miss Washburn's way of graphically illustrating the contributions of the natural gas industry in general — and her own company, Columbia Gas of Ohio, in particular — to our rapid progress in modern living.

Miss Washburn will be dressed from head to toe in a fashionable wardrobe made from natural gas for her talk, and will display and discuss many of the newest home furnishings and building materials that have been developed through the use of gas — as a fuel, a tool or a raw material.

She also will explain the unique process, called "petrochemistry," that produced many of these modern miracle fabrics and materials.

Touching on other areas of gas company research and development, Miss Washburn will describe the key role of underground storage in meeting ever increasing demands for gas in Ohio, and how it provides more than half the gas needed on cold winter days to meet the heating demands of nearly 900,000 customers served by Columbia Gas of Ohio.

Before closing her talk, Miss Washburn again will call on her powers of prestidigitation to transport her audience into the future for a glimpse of what the wonders of science have in store for the homes of tomorrow. One of the most exciting things they will hear about is a fuel cell, no larger than a small suitcase, that someday may produce all a home's electricity from gas so that every home energy need — cooking, heating, cooling and electrical power — will be supplied by a single fuel — natural gas.

Miss Washburn, of Columbus, is a graduate of Jackson High School and Ohio University. A former Miss South Central Ohio in the Miss America Contest and first runner-up in Ohio in the National College Queen Contest, she was head majorette of the Ohio University Marching Band for three years. She also has worked as a model, majorette instructor, life guard and swimming instructor. She was director of public relations at Urbana College, Urbana, O., before going with the gas company and is listed in "Outstanding Young Women of America."

meant he waived all rights to appeal. He also was asked if the decision to plead guilty was his own and of his own free will.

"I agree with the stipulation," Ray said, and then told the judge he wanted to add something.

Asked what it was, Ray said he wanted to go on record as saying he did not agree with "the theory that there was no conspiracy."

In Atlanta, Ga., the Rev. Martin Luther King, Sr., father of the slain civil rights leader, said he had no comment on Ray's plea. Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain man, was reported to be out of the city and not immediately available.

Testimony in Ray's trial today began simply to establish the fact that King was killed. Five witnesses were called, in this order:

—The Rev. Samuel B. Kyles, a Memphis Baptist minister with whom King was to have had supper on the eve of his death.

—Chauncey Eskridge of Chicago, a lawyer and close friend of the civil rights leader.

—Dr. Jerry Francisco, the Shelby County Coroner, who discussed the single rifle wound which King received.

—Inspector N. E. Zachary, chief Memphis homicide officer.

—Robert Jensen, in charge of the Memphis FBI office.

If the jury agrees to the 99-year sentence, and there are indications it will, Ray could be eligible for parole in 33 years.

The state previously said it would demand the death penalty, but the state's electric chair has not been used since 1961.

Give Victims Of 'Bugging' New Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Criminal defendants whose conversations or "premises" were bugged by federal agents have a right to examine government transcripts and logs, the Supreme Court ruled 5 to 3 today.

This includes government records relating to national security matters. The Justice Department has argued strenuously against such action.

The government already had conceded its obligation to disclose illegal bugging if the bugging helped the prosecution. But it maintained this examination should be done by a federal judge—not by the defendant's lawyers.

The court, in an opinion by Justice Byron R. White, a former Justice Department official, disagreed. He said if the bugging hearings "are to be more than a formality and vetting (defendants) not left entirely to reliance on government testimony there should be turned over to them the records of those overheard conversations which the government was not entitled to use in building its case against them."

Joined with White were Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Potter Stewart.

Justices Hugo L. Black, John M. Harlan and Abe Fortas dissented. Justice Thurgood Marshall did not participate, presumably because of his recent Justice Department service.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposed Department of Public Safety gets top billing this week as the 108th General Assembly enters its 10th week tonight.

Introduction of the much publicized proposal has been predicted for weeks but its appearance soon is almost a certainty.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, R-4 Perryburg, gave the bill to Rep. Robert E. Levitt, R-91 Canton, for introduction Friday.

Levitt says the bill has "a great deal of merit" and that he would study it over the weekend to decide if he wants the honor of introducing it in the General Assembly.

Apollo 9 Astronauts Drift Along To Conserve Fuel

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With stormy weather buffeting their planned Atlantic landing area, the Apollo 9 astronauts received word today they might have to shift their splash-down to calmer seas.

Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart then turned space age weathermen to report on conditions in the landing zone and over a wide area of the United States.

McDivitt, the Apollo 9 commander, asked about the forecast for Thursday's planned landing southwest of Bermuda.

"Hey, Jim, I hate to bring that up," replied astronaut Stuart Roosa, the capsule communicator in Mission Control.

Roosa reported there was a storm front moving through the area and "they're calling for fairly heavy winds, around 30 knots or so and waves around six to eight feet."

"But we'll make sure the weather is 'good enough' as we assured Apollo 9. 'I don't think we'll plunk you down in the middle of a front there.'"

The astronauts can change their landing area by firing their retro rockets earlier or later.

★ ★ Money Pinch After Apollo

(AP) — The fascination of flying to the moon may cause problems for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration when it tries to get money for less glamorous flights.

NASA has plans on the drawing board for extensive earth orbit flights, including laboratories with up to 100 men spending months in space.

But projects of this type will cost billions, and some NASA officials worry that after a moon landing, an earth orbit flight will be anti-climactic and hard to sell to Congress and the taxpayers.

"It doesn't come across as a television spectacular as well as flying to the moon," said one space official. "It doesn't have the same definition of a fixed goal."

When Americans first started flying in space eight years ago any manned flight sparked a great public interest.

But as NASA filed one spectacular on top of another, interest tailed off, officials say.

Apollo 8's moon-look of the moon last December as a high point they say, and Apollo 9, an earth orbit flight testing the lunar module, has been a letdown.

Lost Dogs Listed In Police Reports

Don Greenlee told Circleville police a small dog had come to his house, while Steve Fouch, 120 Walnut St., reported his dog was lost.

Greenlee told police if no one came to claim the animal at his home, he would notify Ralph Wallace, County dog warden.

Fouch told police his dog may have been stolen. He said it was chained to a dog house and the chain was broken.

being transferred from the attorney general's office to the new agency.

The commission will also recommend the attorney general's office retain control over the Division of Criminal Activities and the Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Crimes.

"There are always some people against any kind of change involving their future or a program in which they are involved," said Levitt, shrugging off the opposition.

The bill, if passed, will put the Ohio Highway Patrol under the jurisdiction of the new department. The patrol now is in the Department of Highway Safety, which would pass out of existence.

Rep. Anthony Russo, D - 43 Cleveland, and nine other Democrats plan to introduce a resolution asking Congress to repeal its planned freeze on welfare payments.

The federal freeze, to go into effect July 1, would keep federal aid to families with dependent children from being raised.

Sponsors of the resolution contend it will cut off 46,500 Ohio children from much needed assistance.

A bill to permit abortions in certain cases will get its first hearing before the House Health and Welfare Committee Tuesday.

Rep. John Galbraith R - 75 Maumee, author of the measure, says he is optimistic about its chances of passage.

"I have been surprised at the outpouring of favorable letters I and other members of the House have received, Galbraith said.

The bill advocates abortions be legalized for victims of rape and for mothers whose life would be endangered by childbirth.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Field tests in England have convinced the U.S. Disarmament Agency that small international inspection teams could safeguard a future arms control pact "without compromising the national security of the country under inspection."

During Exercise First Look small inspection teams monitored the activities of about 30,000 British troops in a 2,000 square miles area west of London last year.

It was a joint U.S.-British test, with the $3.4 million cost shared by the two nations.

The agency reported Sunday the tests shed new light on inspection techniques.

Officials said the experiment showed that information provided by a small inspection organization, together with data from other sources, would "give reasonable assurance that an agreement on levels of forces was being observed."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young college graduates training to be postal executives will have a chance to run some post offices for several months as a result of the new merit system being implemented by the Nixon administration.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount announced Sunday that professional postal managers will be temporary replacements for acting postmasters who were not given permanent appointments this year.

Blount said that during the four to six months it takes to select permanent postmasters the young management trainees can give leadership to the offices and get operating experience at the same time.

One trainee has been selected already and nine more will be chosen this month. As many as 30 may be put in the field eventually.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pay raises totalling $3 billion for the coming fiscal year are shaping up for the military.

The Nixon administration, keeping a promise made last month by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, will move soon to boost military pay about $1.2 billion in the year starting July 1.

This will be added to a $1.8 billion increase under legislation already enacted.

New scales are intended to put service pay in line with civilian salaries as a step toward reducing the reliance on the draft. While servicemen will be getting more money, they will be losing some special nontaxable allowances.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. John A. Schnitzler, former undersecretary of agriculture, says Congress should look into putting a limitation on government payments to farmers.

Schnitzler said Sunday that this was his viewpoint during the latter years of the Johnson administration, but he did not express it publicly because it would have been contrary to Democratic policy.

Former Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman strongly opposed any ceilings on direct farm payments.

Schnitzler is an agricultural economist now with the Alfred P. Sloan School of Management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dear Editor:

When I first learned about the asinine proposal to locate the city dump on the former county home land, I could not believe it.

We are aware of the fact that there is need for a dump. We are wondering why the Commissioners did not have one of our Roundtown realtors show them some isolated worn out property suitable for this purpose and nothing else.

It would be nothing short of abomination to turn this lovely wooded land into sanitary landfill (fancy name for a dump).

Anyone who has seen the present dumps in our county can well wonder why they haven't been covered over since the law supposedly required it. Perhaps the present dumps could become sanitary landfill operations with a little cooperation between the owners and Commissioners.

The Hargus Lake picnic area (proposed) would be just across the road from the dump so every puff of wind would keep the trees decorated with mylar from the uncovered dumping (they could not prevent this; just observe the present dump). This would make the Hargus Lake area development chances dim indeed.

In all honesty, fairness and common sense, I hope the citizens of Washington Township will never permit this beautiful land to be desecrated with a dump.

Deny Actress Is Seriously Ill

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The back pains suffered by actress Elizabeth Taylor are "not of a serious nature and there is no surgery planned," her physician says.

Dr. Rex Kennamer, treating Miss Taylor in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, denied a Detroit columnist's report that the 37-year-old actress was undergoing cancer tests.

"Everybody has a little back trouble," Kennamer said.

He said there was a "degenerating disc" in Miss Taylor's spine, the result of an operation several years ago to fuse two discs.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Bonanza," in an episode considerably off its usual track, combined on Sunday night many of the standard ingredients of a Western with a lesson based on man's inhumanity to man.

The episode was written and directed by Michael Landon, who plays one of the Cartwright brothers most weeks, but turned the lead in the episode over to Dan Blocker.

It was a story about a Negro farmer, a former slave who had bought his freedom and moved west with his family. Hoss—Blocker's role—encountered the 7-year-old farmer's son saying: "I wish my papa was white," the story then moved in the expected direction.

Hoss took the boy back to his farm and found the rest of the family in dire straits. He tried to turn good samaritan and since there had to be conflict, it came when he returned to town with the two boys and some eggs they had for sale.

A pair of bullies picked on the boys and called them names—names rarely heard on television until recently—and smashed the eggs.

Hoss, of course, intervened with two well-placed rights to the jaws of the bullies. The bad guys retaliated later by beating up the little boy. This led to another round of fistfuffs, this time by the boys' father.

The story had an interesting twist in the bitter attitude of the Negro farmer—well played by Ossie Davis—toward his benefactor as well as his despair and resignation about the bigoted townfolk. There were some awkward and saccharine bits, particularly in scenes between Blocker and a fine young actor named George Spell, who played the smallest boy. Generally it appeared that Michael Landon is a better actor than a script writer, but he proved that his heart is in the right place.

CBS, in a last minute switch, substituted a rerun of a two-month-old "Smothers Brother Comedy Hour" for the new program originally scheduled Sunday night.

Network spokesmen said the change was made because CBS did not receive a tape of the new show in time to permit executives of its affiliated stations to preview it on a closed circuit.

"The content of the broadcast is not at issue," said a network statement. "As broadcast licenses, the stations affiliated with the network have the right to preview on request any program before it is presented on the air."

The program announced originally for the time period had folk singer Joan Baez and comedian Jackie Mason as guest stars. Miss Baez has taken a well-publicized stand against the Vietnam war and been the center of considerable controversy.

The Smothers Brothers have conducted running warfare against CBS censorship policies and occasionally have had material blue-pencilled, particularly material of a political nature.

The network spokesman said, however, that an announcement would be made early this week setting the date on which the program would be broadcast.

Woman Is Given 5-Year Probation In Bank Holdup

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Judge Fred Cramer has placed a Hamilton woman on five-years probation on her conviction of bank robbery in the theft of $3,065 from a branch of the Citizens Bank of Hamilton.

The judge also ordered Jacqueline Cox, 33, to obtain psychiatric treatment or face a term in the Marysville Reformatory.

Mrs. Cox was arrested minutes after the robbery Dec. 23 but denied any knowledge of it or how money from the bank, clothing and a gun used in the holdup, got into her auto.

Cleveland Nurses Issue Ultimatum

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Nurses at St. Vincent Charity Hospital have threatened to take action Friday unless the hospital agrees to recognize the Ohio Nurses Association as their bargaining agent.

Janice O'Connor, a spokesman for the nurses, said, however, an ultimatum threatening "withdrawal of the nurses services" does not mean the nurses will strike.

Cao Ky, usually quick with threats to retaliate, has limited himself to a vague suggestion that the bombing of North Vietnam should be resumed, but he appeared not at all sure about making such a recommendation to President Nguyen Van Thieu.

"Maybe, I don't know," he replied to newsmen's queries Friday.

Thieu himself and Premier Tran Van Huong have been silent, even though Huong was the target of a Viet Cong assassination attempt Wednesday.

Thieu predicted last Dec. 21 the enemy would launch an offensive against Saigon. He threatened then he would break off the Paris peace talks if this happened, but so far has shown no indication of carrying out his threat.

In a lengthy editorial Friday, the Saigon Daily News listed a number of options President Nixon could employ to blunt the offensive.

The paper said Nixon could resume bombing of the North, "but then we will be back where we were before last March 31 when President Johnson partly lifted the bombing."

Nixon could also "order lightning commando attacks upon some areas in the North, or an invasion of the whole country and risk a third world war," it said.

The pacification program is said to be going ahead well, the war being prosecuted vigorously, democracy being implemented, political stability being built, the army becoming stronger. Thus we should not distract ourselves from this right course or slaken our efforts on it." Although the Saigon government has complained of enemy rocket attacks on population centers, the U.S. government has tended to downplay the enemy's offensive, saying most of the attacks except those on Saigon were on military targets.

This suggests U.S. retaliation, if any, will be mild. And by his silence, Thieu has indicated he might go along with whatever Washington decides.

Dear Editor:

When I first learned about the asinine proposal to locate the city dump on the former county home land, I could not believe it.

We are aware of the fact that there is need for a dump. We are wondering why the Commissioners did not have one of our Roundtown realtors show them some isolated worn out property suitable for this purpose and nothing else.

It would be nothing short of abomination to turn this lovely wooded land into sanitary landfill (fancy name for a dump).

Anyone who has seen the present dumps in our county can well wonder why they haven't been covered over since the law supposedly required it. Perhaps the present dumps could become sanitary landfill operations with a little cooperation between the owners and Commissioners.

The Hargus Lake picnic area (proposed) would be just across the road from the dump so every puff of wind would keep the trees decorated with mylar from the uncovered dumping (they could not prevent this; just observe the present dump). This would make the Hargus Lake area development chances dim indeed.

In all honesty, fairness and common sense, I hope the citizens of Washington Township will never permit this beautiful land to be desecrated with a dump.

Deny Actress Is Seriously Ill

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The back pains suffered by actress Elizabeth Taylor are "not of a serious nature and there is no surgery planned," her physician says.

Dr. Rex Kenamer, treating Miss Taylor in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, denied a Detroit columnist's report that the 37-year-old actress was undergoing cancer tests.

"Everybody has a little back trouble," Kenamer said.

He said there was a "degenerating disc" in Miss Taylor's spine, the result of an operation several years ago to fuse two discs.

Views on Television

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Bonanza," in an episode considerably off its usual track, combined on Sunday night many of the standard ingredients of a Western with a lesson based on man's inhumanity to man.

The episode was written and directed by Michael Landon, who plays one of the Cartwright brothers most weeks, but turned the lead in the episode over to Dan Blocker.

It was a story about a Negro farmer, a former slave who had bought his freedom and moved west with his family. Hoss-Blocker's role—encountered the 7-year-old farmer's son saying: "I wish my papa was white." The story then moved in the expected direction.

Hoss took the boy back to his farm and found the rest of the family in dire straits. He tried to turn good samaritan and since there had to be conflict, it came when he returned to town with the two boys and some eggs they had for sale.

A pair of bullies picked on the boys and called them names—names rarely heard on television until recently—and smashed the eggs.

Hoss, of course, intervened with two well-placed rights to the jaws of the bullies. The bad guys retaliated later by beating up the little boy. This led to another round of fisticuffs, this time by the boys' father.

The story had an interesting twist in the bitter attitude of the Negro farmer—well played by Ossie Davis—toward his benefactor as well as his despair and resignation about the bigoted townfolk. There were some awkward and saccharine bits, particularly in scenes between Blocker and a fine young actor named George Spell, who played the smallest boy. Generally it appeared that Michael Landon is a better actor than a script writer, but he proved that his heart is in the right place.

CBS, in a last minute switch, substituted a rerun of a two-month-old "Smothers Brother Comedy Hour" for the new program originally scheduled Sunday night.

Network spokesmen said the change was made because CBS did not receive a tape of the new show in time to permit executives of its affiliated stations to preview it on a closed circuit.

"The content of the broadcast is not at issue," said a network statement. "As broadcast licenses, the stations affiliated with the network have the right to preview on request any program before it is presented on the air."

The program announced originally for the time period had folk singer Joan Baez and comedian Jackie Mason as guest stars. Miss Baez has taken a well-publicized stand against the Vietnam war and been the center of considerable controversy. The Smothers Brothers have conducted running warfare against CBS censorship policies and occasionally have had material blue-pencilled, particularly material of a political nature.

The network spokesman said, however, that an announcement would be made early this week setting the date on which the program would be broadcast.

Ships At Sea

Rebuffed last year by a pocket veto of President Johnson, the maritime industry and its congressional allies are reviving their push for an independent Maritime Administration with cabinet status.

In this way they hope to halt the erosion of the merchant fleet by assuring it front-rank status in government councils.

There is general agreement that maritime interests have not received the official attention they deserve from the Maritime Administration as an agency under the Commerce Department.

Suspect, too, was the Johnson plan

of placing maritime under the Department of Transportation, preoccupied as that body is with mass transit, airports and highways.

That more than cabinet prestige is needed to rescue the merchant marine is indicated by figures showing that the tonnage capacity of U.S.-owned ships under foreign flags now exceeds that of the domestic fleet.

More than government inertia, it is shipowner inability to face the wage demands, work rules and stoppages of the National Maritime Union that is hastening the nation's demise on the high seas.

Followup Is The Test

Presidents seldom return from foreign journeys without exuding confidence that they have opened new lines to understanding between the United States and other powers. Thus Mr. Nixon followed script in his report.

Still, this is what presidential trips are largely for. This applies especially to one by a new president, since it gives other leaders a chance to know him better and for him to know them.

President Nixon was able to speak for the first time with the authority of a president. President de Gaulle not only was properly cordial but accepted readily an invitation to return the call — next year.

Much can happen meantime, however, in Paris, Washington and the other capitals. It's the followup that brings the real test of what a presidential mission has accomplished.

A Personal Task

One of America's greatest delusions is the belief in a magic formula, a quick solution to the world's problems — a touching faith that once we find the cure-all, we can all go back to our own amusements.

What we should do is this: Recognize that our freedom is neither absolute nor guaranteed; realize that the contest for freedom is continuous, and that there will always be enemies to attack it — and rid ourselves of the notion that one massive effort will do the job.

And perhaps most important, we must understand that freedom cannot be entrusted solely to a shadowy, omnipotent "government." It can only be maintained and extended by all of us.

Nixon Allows Free Hand

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

You can't please 'em all.

The conservatives in Washington, particularly on Capitol Hill, are very much concerned about the predominance of Lyndon Johnson holdovers in the State Department. They would like to make an issue over the apparent refusal of Secretary of State William Pierce Rogers to reinstate Otto Otepka, the former security chief of the Department who was removed by ex-Secretary Dean Rusk for a hard line policy on security clearances. The conservatives complain that Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's White House adviser on foreign policy, has picked no fewer than fourteen Kennedy and Johnson men from their old berths in the Pentagon, the State Department, and elsewhere to provide the information that gives ground tone to policy recommendations. As for Robert Hutchison Finch in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, he is accused of flouting the Republican November mandate by his choice of Dr. James E. Allen Jr. for Commissioner of Education. During fourteen years as boss of education in New York State, Allen was known as the only state commissioner in the country who was to the left of Lyndon Johnson's school expert, Harold Howe, who was universally hated below the Mason-Dixon line.

While the conservatives are muttering about Kissinger, Rogers, and Finch, the liberals are sounding off about the "nefarious" influence of Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. They don't like it because Harry Dent, Thurmond's former administrative assistant, now has a job inside the White House. They object to the appointment of Fred Buzhardt, another old Thurmond assistant, as general counsel of the Defense Department. They stoop to guilt by association when they accuse Richard V. Allen, a member of the National Security Council, of being a friend of Thurmond's. Allen happens to come from California, which is about as far from South Carolina as you can get, and he came into the Nixon campaign on the strength of his work at the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace at Stanford University. Thurmond had nothing to do with the Allen appointment.

What Nixon has obviously done is to give his department and council heads a free hand in picking their own subordinates. The charitable view about Kissinger, once a Nelson Rockefeller foreign policy adviser, is that he doesn't know anything about domestic politics. He has chosen assistants on foreign studies with a sublime indifference to Left-Right domestic symbolisms. Bob Finch, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, obviously aspires to high political office in California, say as the next Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate. If incumbent George Murphy decides for reasons of health to step down, if Finch can't please the poor with his conduct of his Cabinet office in Washington, it will be worthless to him in terms of future California votes.

Kissinger and Finch and, to a more limited extent, Secretary of State Rogers have gone one way in picking their assistants. They are balanced on the Left-Right spectrum by Secretary Melvin Robert Laird in the Department of Defense and Attorney General John Newton Mitchell in the Department of Justice. Laird has given the important post of Assistant Secretary for Defense to Professor Warren Nutter, who was a Goldwater adviser in 1964. Nutter, a crack economist, can tell you the productivity of any nation east of the Iron Curtain to the last decimal point. As for Attorney General Mitchell, he has picked Richard Kleindienst for Deputy Attorney General. Kleindienst is another Goldwater man.

So, if you take an across-the-board view of things, the men Nixon has chosen have, in turn, drawn upon all segments of the Republican Party for staffing the ranks.

Somehow my mind goes back to the New Deal, when that master political magician, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, kept all sorts of quarrelsome characters on tap within the government for help in policy-making decisions. There was Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the internationalist Free Trader, who was "balanced" by "nationalists" Ray Moley and Rexford Tugwell. There were Jerome Frank and Donald Richberg, who thought the anti-trust laws were anachronisms. There was also Thurmond Arnold, who wanted anti-trust enforced to the hilt.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CALVIN COOLIDGE had his moments. Once, at a banquet, he was presented with a cane by the chairman, who rhapsodized, "The mahogany from which this cane is fashioned is as impregnable as the rock-bound coast of Maine, and as beautiful as the sun-kissed shores of Hawaii." Mr. Coolidge arose, examined the cane for a moment, then turned to his expectant audience, "Birch," he said loudly — and sat down.

When an American destroyer laid over for a weekend in Swedish waters, two praiseworthy gobs aboard decided to go to church. Unable to understand one word of Swedish, they resolved to play safe by sitting behind a solid-looking citizen and doing whatever he did.

In the course of the service, the pastor paused to make some special announcement, whereupon the citizen leaped to his feet. The two sailors promptly did likewise, whereupon the entire congregation dissolved into a gale of laughter.

Later the sailors learned the cause of the merriment. The pastor had announced a baptism and requested the father of the baby to rise.

A psychiatrist was puzzled by disclosures made to him by a new patient. "Is there any insanity in your family?" he demanded finally. "There must be," nodded the patient. "They keep writing me for money."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

"Man chokes to death while eating dinner" is a newspaper headline that recurs once in a great while. The story usually goes on to give the dramatic and heroic details of the life-saving attempts at "table-top restaurant surgery" performed threat to health.

Such stories strike unnecessary terror, especially in those people who have a tendency to develop an occasional choking spasm while eating.

For reassurance, it must be emphasized that choking to death by food is a rare, very rare, accident. So rare, in fact, that the possibility of its occurrence must not even vaguely be considered as a significant threat to life.

When the mechanism of breathing is clearly understood, the fear of choking should be minimized. Armed with this knowledge, everyone can offer reasonable and effective emergency help to anyone who seems to be choking because of a spasm of the larynx or because food has "gone down the wrong way."

Normally, air is inhaled through the mouth, then passes through the larynx and trachea to empty its vital oxygen into the lung. From here, the oxygen is absorbed into the blood stream.

The lungs then collect the carbon dioxide waste accumulated from all parts of the body and, in reverse fashion, exhale this carbon dioxide through the mouth.

Any interference with this cycle of unobstructed breathing impairs the safety and the normal functions of the body.

A complex and delicate reflex mechanism acts as a defense against the possibility of food entering the air passages instead of following their normal pathway — the esophagus to the stomach.

Occasionally, however, food does seem to "go down the wrong way" causing a severe but temporary spasm and a choking sensation. It is the spasm that prevents air from entering the lungs and therefore, momentarily interferes with breathing. A terrifying feeling of panic almost invariably results.

These spasms usually disappear quickly, especially if the person is relaxed and reassured. Nature has its own safety fuse against the danger of choking to death during one of these spasms. When the spasm is prolonged, and the air intake delayed, the individual becomes faint and momentarily "passes out" because of lack of oxygen. When this occurs, the spasm automatically disappears.

Once in a very great while, food actually does go into the windpipe or larynx. Then nature has another technique for dislodging it. Sharp, explosive coughing almost invariably displaces the food and the breathing returns to normal.

An additional safe way to dislodge such a foreign body from the windpipe is to bend the person forward and apply sharp, snappy blows to the back, between the shoulder blades. Small children can be turned upside-down while applying this technique.

An attempt to dislodge the food by finger extraction sometimes interferes with nature's own mechanism and further jams the substance into the airway.

Panic occasionally induces some people to try heroic surgical feats. Unless exceedingly well-trained for such emergencies, more damage than good can be inflicted. The danger of choking on food is infinitesimally small and should not cause any undue anxiety if a spasm occurs.

Poor kids are getting an educational break at last, thanks in part at least to U.S. financial aid to students. In 1966 only 7.5 per cent of freshmen students enrolling in college came from families with annual incomes of $5,000 or less. By 1968 the figure had risen to 11 per cent.

What can you get for a penny anymore? Well, it'll still buy penny candy, a business that is flourishing again. Of the U.S. candy industry's annual $3 billion in sales, almost $200 million of it is in penny candy.

Quotable notables: "A man should sleep sometime between lunch and dinner in order to be at his best in the evening when he joins his wife and friends at dinner. My wife and I tried two or three times in the last 40 years to have breakfast together, but it was so disagreeable we had to stop." — Sir Winston Churchill.

Worth remembering: "If you can't break 85 you have no business on a golf course. If you can break 85 you probably have no business."

Mrs. Anna Sensenbrenner, mother of Columbus Mayor M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner, died in Berger Hospital at the age of 83. Her husband, who had preceded her in death, operated a watch and jewelry store in Circleville for more than 50 years.

Circleville Board of Education adopted a set of educational standards recommended by superintendents of the South Central Ohio League Athletic Assn.

Carl S. Burger, former Pickaway Twp. executive head and coach, was hired as superintendent of the Logan Elm School District. He was executive head of Mt. Sterling schools.

The entire stock of Kochheiser Hardware Co. at 113 W. Main St., was purchased by Romaine (Red) Wilson — a native of Ashville and a graduate of Ashville High School.

A $300 annual raise was approved for city school teachers, effective in September.

Circleville's Ted Lewis was honored on the TV show, "This Is Your Life." Appearing on the show from Pickaway County were Representative Ed Wallace and Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

A book written by Pickaway

Countian Grace Stevenson Haber was released by a New York press. The book was a biography of Mingo Indian Chief Logan and was entitled, "With Pipe and Tomahawk."

Sylvia Smith, a senior at Circleville High School and Marvin Reichelderfer, a graduate of Salt Creek Twp. school, received the 4-H Junior Leader Honor Award from Pickaway County.

Gary Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Valentine of Route 1, Kingston, was named 1959 winner of the Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy.

Berger Hospital and its medical staff completed plans to open a well-baby clinic at the hospital.

Fire destroyed the Logan Elm Restaurant at Routes 23 and 361, south of the city and a home at the John Penn Farm southeast of town.

T. D. Van Camp, 307 Oakwood Place, a sophomore at OSU, was crowned Goldiggers' King at the annual ball held on the campus.

Mrs. Marvyn Hoover Rhoades assumed command as county auditor saying this was her "first opportunity to become acquainted with the office procedure" since she had been refused admittance to the local office by Mrs. Verna O'Hara, defeated Auditor incumbent.

Ships At Sea

Rebuffed last year by a pocket veto of President Johnson, the maritime industry and its congressional allies are reviving their push for an independent Maritime Administration with cabinet status.

In this way they hope to halt the erosion of the merchant fleet by assuring it front-rank status in government councils.

There is general agreement that maritime interests have not received the official attention they deserve from the Maritime Administration as an agency under the Commerce Department.

Suspect, too, was the Johnson plan

of placing maritime under the Department of Transportation, preoccupied as that body is with mass transit, airports and highways.

That more than cabinet prestige is needed to rescue the merchant marine is indicated by figures showing that the tonnage capacity of U.S.-owned ships under foreign flags now exceeds that of the domestic fleet.

More than government inertia, it is shipowner inability to face the wage demands, work rules and stoppages of the National Maritime Union that is hastening the nation's demise on the high seas.

Followup Is The Test

Presidents seldom return from foreign journeys without exuding confidence that they have opened new lines to understanding between the United States and other powers. Thus Mr. Nixon followed script in his report.

Still, this is what presidential trips are largely for. This applies especially to one by a new president, since it gives other leaders a chance to know him better and for him to know them.

President Nixon was able to speak for the first time with the authority of a president. President de Gaulle not only was properly cordial but accepted readily an invitation to return the call — next year.

Much can happen meantime, however, in Paris, Washington and the other capitals. It's the followup that brings the real test of what a presidential mission has accomplished.

A Personal Task

One of America's greatest delusions is the belief in a magic formula, a quick solution to the world's problems — a touching faith that once we find the cure-all, we can all go back to our own amusements.

What we should do is this: Recognize that our freedom is neither absolute nor guaranteed; realize that the contest for freedom is continuous, and that there will always be enemies to attack it — and rid ourselves of the notion that one massive effort will do the job.

And perhaps most important, we must understand that freedom cannot be entrusted solely to a shadowy, omnipotent "government." It can only be maintained and extended by all of us.

Nixon Allows Free Hand

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

You can't please 'em all.

The conservatives in Washington, particularly on Capitol Hill, are very much concerned about the predominance of Lyndon Johnson holdovers in the State Department. They would like to make an issue over the apparent refusal of Secretary of State William Pierce Rogers to reinstate Otto Otepka, the former security chief of the Department who was removed by ex-Secretary Dean Rusk for a hard line policy on security clearances. The conservatives complain that Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's White House adviser on foreign policy, has picked no fewer than fourteen Kennedy and Johnson men from their old berths in the Pentagon, the State Department, and elsewhere to provide the information that gives ground tone to policy recommendations. As for Robert Hutchison Finch in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, he is accused of flouting the Republican November mandate by his choice of Dr. James E. Allen Jr. for Commissioner of Education. During fourteen years as boss of education in New York State, Allen was known as the only state commissioner in the country who was to the left of Lyndon Johnson's school expert, Harold Howe, who was universally hated below the Mason-Dixon line.

While the conservatives are muttering about Kissinger, Rogers, and Finch, the liberals are sounding off about the "nefarious" influence of Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. They don't like it because Harry Dent, Thurmond's former administrative assistant, now has a job inside the White House. They object to the appointment of Fred Buzhardt, another old Thurmond assistant, as general counsel of the Defense Department. They stoop to guilt by association when they accuse Richard V. Allen, a member of the National Security Council, of being a friend of Thurmond's. Allen happens to come from California, which is about as far from South Carolina as you can get, and he came into the Nixon campaign on the strength of his work at the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace at Stanford University. Thurmond had nothing to do with the Allen appointment.

What Nixon has obviously done is to give his department and council heads a free hand in picking their own subordinates. The charitable view about Kissinger, once a Nelson Rockefeller foreign policy adviser, is that he doesn't know anything about domestic politics. He has chosen assistants on foreign studies with a sublime indifference to Left-Right domestic symbolism. Bob Finch, the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, obviously aspires to high political office in California, say as the next Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate if incumbent George Murphy decides for reasons of health to step down. If Finch can't please the poor with his conduct of his Cabinet office in Washington, it will be worthless to him in terms of future California votes.

Kissinger and Finch and, to a more limited extent, Secretary of State Rogers have gone one way in picking their assistants. They are balanced on the Left-Right spectrum by Secretary Melvin Robert Laird in the Department of Defense and Attorney General John Newton Mitchell in the Department of Justice. Laird has given the important post of Assistant Secretary for International Security Affairs in Defense to Professor Warren Nutter, who was a Goldwater adviser in 1964. Nutter, a crack economist, can tell you the productivity of any nation east of the Iron Curtain to the last decimal point. As for Attorney General Mitchell, he has picked Richard Kleindienst for Deputy Attorney General. Kleindienst is another Goldwater man.

So, if you take an across-the-board view of things, the men Nixon has chosen have, in turn, drawn upon all segments of the Republican Party for staffing the ranks.

Somewhat my mind goes back to the New Deal, when that master political magician, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, kept all sorts of quarrelsome characters on tap within the government for help in policy-making decisions. There was Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the internationalist; Free Trader, who was "balanced" by "nationalists" Ray Moley and Rexford Tugwell. There were Jerome Frank and Donald Richberg, who thought the anti-trust laws were anachronisms. There was also Thurmond Arnold, who wanted anti-trust enforced to the hilt.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CALVIN COOLIDGE had his moments. Once, at a banquet, he was presented with a cane by the chairman, who rhapsodized, "The mahogany from which this cane is fashioned is as impregnable as the rock-bound coast of Maine, and as beautiful as the sun-kissed shores of Hawaii." Mr. Coolidge arose, examined the cane for a moment, then turned to his expectant audience, "Birch," he said loudly — and sat down.

When an American destroyer laid over for a weekend in Swedish waters, two prize-worthy gobs aboard decided to go to church. Unable to understand one word of Swedish, they resolved to play safe by sitting behind a solid-looking citizen and doing whatever he did. In the course of the service, the pastor paused to make some special announcement, whereupon the citizen leaped to his feet. The two sailors promptly did likewise, whereupon the entire congregation dissolved into a gale of laughter.

Later the sailors learned the cause of the merriment. The pastor had announced a baptism and requested the father of the baby to rise.

A psychiatrist was puzzled by disclosures made to him by a new patient. "Is there any insanity in your family?" he demanded finally. "There must be," nodded the patient. "They kept writing me for money."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

"Man chokes to death while eating dinner" is a newspaper headline that recurs once in a great while. The story usually goes on to give the dramatic and heroic details of the life-saving attempts at "table-top restaurant surgery" performed threat to health.

Such stories strike unnecessary terror, especially in those people who have a tendency to develop an occasional choking spasm while eating. For reassurance, it must be emphasized that choking to death by food is a rare, very rare, accident. So rare, in fact, that the possibility of its occurrence must not even vaguely be considered as a significant threat to life.

When the mechanism of breathing is clearly understood, the fear of choking should be minimized. Armed with this knowledge, everyone can offer reasonable and effective emergency help to anyone who seems to be choking because of a spasm of the larynx or because food has "gone down the wrong way."

Normally, air is inhaled through the mouth, then passes through the larynx and trachea to empty its vital oxygen into the lung. From here, the oxygen is absorbed into the blood stream.

The lungs then collect the carbon dioxide waste accumulated from all parts of the body and, in reverse fashion, exhale this carbon dioxide through the mouth.

Any interference with this cycle of unobstructed breathing impairs the safety and the normal functions of the body.

A complex and delicate reflex mechanism acts as a defense against the possibility of food entering the air passages instead of following their normal pathway — the esophagus to the stomach.

Occasionally, however, food does seem to "go down the wrong way" causing a severe but temporary spasm and a choking sensation. It is the spasm that prevents air from entering the lungs and therefore, momentarily interferes with breathing. A terrifying feeling of panic almost invariably results.

These spasms usually disappear quickly, especially if the person is relaxed and reassured. Nature has its own safety fuse against the danger of choking to death during one of these spasms. When the spasm is prolonged, and the air intake delayed, the individual becomes faint and momentarily "passes out" because of lack of oxygen. When this occurs, the spasm automatically disappears.

Once in a very great while, food actually does go into the windpipe or larynx. Then nature has another technique for dislodging it. Sharp, explosive coughing almost invariably displaces the food and the breathing returns to normal.

An additional safe way to dislodge such a foreign body from the windpipe is to bend the person forward and apply sharp, snappy blows to the back, between the shoulder blades. Small children can be turned upside-down while applying this technique.

An attempt to dislodge the food by finger extraction sometimes interferes with nature's own mechanism and further jams the substance into the airway.

Panic occasionally induces some people to try heroic surgical feats. Unless exceedingly well-trained for such emergencies, more damage than good can be inflicted.

The danger of choking on food is infinitesimally small and should not cause any undue anxiety if a spasm occurs.

Can Insults Mean 'I Love You'?

DEAR ABBY: My son is a C.P.A. and he is going with a college girl. She makes all kinds of mean remarks about the way he looks. (he is losing his hair) and the way he walks (he has flat feet).

He, on the other hand, is always telling her she is built like a stick and has a big nose, which is also true.

Why, then, do they keep going with each other? If they should marry, what kind of marriage would this be?

They have been going steady for six months. Do you call this love

MOTHER OF A C.P.A. DEAR MOTHER: Yes, it could be "love". Maybe not YOUR kind (or mine) but if they're satisfied with each other, don't let it bother you. As for the "kind of marriage" it would be: Realistic. And possibly a better marriage than one in which each is blind to the blemishes of the other.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for five years and have two wonderful children. My problem is a jealous husband.

Before we were married, I had an affair with another man (we were engaged), and I was fool enough to confess it to my future husband. Now I realize it was a big mistake, altho at the time, he said he wouldn't hold it against me. Now that we are married every time we have a quarrel he throws it in my face. He is so mean, he's even told his parents!

In addition to accusing me of having an affair with every man I meet, now he calls me filthy names and he's even accused me of having relations with my brothers and uncles!

I've suggested psychiatric help for him, but he says HE is all right, I'M the one who needs help. Divorce is out of the question as it's against our religion and he is a good father to our children. I can't say I really "love" him, Abby, but I am trapped. I've always been a decent wife and haven't even looked at another man since my marriage, and don't intend to. What is your advice?

Flexible School Study System Proves Failure

TROY, Mich. (AP) — Faced with plunging scores in national achievement tests and increased absenteeism, Troy High School has decided to drop a controversial study program that allows students to spend up to 40 per cent of the school day as they wish.

Principal Clyde Peterson presented that decision Friday for consideration of the school board in the Detroit suburb of 20,000.

The program, titled "flexible modular scheduling" was instituted four years ago. Two years later, Principal Joseph E. Bechard resigned during a controversy over the program between parents and teachers.

Peterson said, based on scores in the national tests, the program has not provided the students with enough academic achievement to keep the same relative position they had when they came to the high school four years ago.

PRESIDENT NIXON looks intent as he tells reporters in Washington that the U.S. will give "an appropriate response" if shelling of South Vietnam cities continues.

Can Insults Mean 'I Love You'?

DEAR ABBY: My son is a C.P.A. and he is going with a college girl. She makes all kinds of mean remarks about the way he looks. (he is losing his hair) and the way he walks (he has flat feet).

He, on the other hand, is always telling her she is built like a stick and has a big nose, which is also true.

Why, then, do they keep going with each other? If they should marry, what kind of marriage would this be?

They have been going steady for six months. Do you call this love?

MOTHER OF A C.P.A.
DEAR MOTHER: Yes, it could be "love". Maybe not YOUR kind (or mine) but if they're satisfied with each other, don't let it bother you. As for the "kind of marriage" it would be: Realistic. And possibly a better marriage than one in which each is blind to the blemishes of the other.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for five years and have two wonderful children. My problem is a jealous husband.

Before we were married, I had an affair with another man (we were engaged), and I was fool enough to confess it to my future husband. Now I realize it was a big mistake, altho at the time, he said he wouldn't hold it against me. Now that we are married every time we have a quarrel he throws it in my face. He is so mean, he's even told his parents!

In addition to accusing me of having an affair with every man I meet, now he calls me filthy names and he's even accused me of having relations with my brothers and uncles!

I've suggested psychiatric help for him, but he says HE is all right. I'm the one who needs help. Divorce is out of the question as it's against our religion and he is a good father to our children. I can't say I really "love" him, Abby, but I am trapped. I've always been a decent wife and haven't even looked at another man since my marriage, and don't intend to. What is your advice?

TRAPPED
DEAR TRAPPED: Your husband is sick. And any woman who subjects herself to the kind

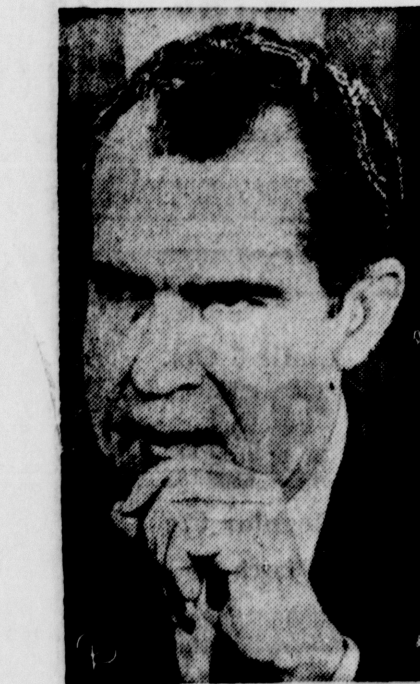

Flexible School Study System Proves Failure

TROY, Mich. (AP) — Faced with plunging scores in national achievement tests and increased absenteeism, Troy High School has decided to drop a controversial study program that allows students to spend up to 40 per cent of the school day as they wish.

Principal Clyde Peterson presented that decision Friday for consideration of the school board in the Detroit suburb of 20,000.

The program, titled "flexible modular scheduling" was instituted four years ago. Two years later, Principal Joseph E. Bechard resigned during a controversy over the program between parents and teachers.

Petersen said, based on scores in the national tests, the program has not provided the students with enough academic achievement to keep the same relative position they had when they came to the high school four years ago.

PRESIDENT NIXON looks intent as he tells reporters in Washington that the U.S. will give "an appropriate response" if shelling of South Vietnam cities continues.

East, Mansfield Lead Tournament Clashes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Unbeaten Columbus East and powerful Mansfield St. Peter lead 16 teams in each class into regional tournament basketball action on this week.

The East express continues on its path to a second straight Class AA championship Saturday with a 79-71 victory over Columbus Linden-McKinley. St. Peter, the defending Class A kingpin, hardly worked up a sweat in a 75-53 romp over Atica.

East and 15 other AA clubs copped district crowns Saturday while nine small school teams also registered triumphs, joining seven other Class A quintets that advanced to regional play with Friday victories.

The sweet sixteen in each division is all that remains from the original field of 833 that started sectional play two weeks ago. By Saturday night, the field will be whittled to four in each class for the state tournament at St. John Arena March 21-22.

East, paced by Ed Ratleff's 35 points, got by stubborn Columbus Linden-McKinley 79-71 for its 45th straight victory, 21 this season. The No. 1 ranked Tigers battle sixth ranked Zanesville Thursday.

Zanesville survived No. 9 East Liverpool's stall when Lee Palmer sank a basket with four seconds remaining for a 32-31 decision. East Liverpool led 27-25 at halftime and stalled away the whole third period. Only 11 shots were taken in the entire second half, four by the winners.

Among the ranked clubs, No. 2 Canton McKinley, beaten only once, crushed Stark County rival Marlington 87-57. Marlington, tied for fourth in the rankings with Toledo Libbey, finished 22-1. Libbey had a tougher time but finally subdued Toledo Macomber 53-50. No. 8 Hamilton Garfield, which bowed in the finals to East last year, sidelined Middletown, 72-55, ending the Middies' hopes for an eighth state title.

In other Double-A results, Cleveland St. Joseph stopped Euclid, a state semifinalist last year, 64-61, and Newark ousted No. 10 Columbus South, 77-66.

In small school warfare, unheralded Frontier bombed sixth ranked West Muskingum, 81-57. No. 5 Fort Recovery outlasted No. 8 St. Henry 80-77 and Lincoln Heights, 20-3, moved closer to its second straight state tournament berth with an 85-58 conquest of Greenview.

Five ranked teams in Class AA and four in Class A remain in contention. Regional play is set for Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in seven cities.

In large school competition at Canton, McKinley goes against Akron Central and Cleveland St. Joseph tangles with Youngstown Ursuline.

At Toledo, Libbey opposes Berea while Lima Central Catholic takes on Cleveland John Adams at Bowling Green. Newark opposes Portsmouth and Columbus East meets Zanesville in Columbus action while Dayton Chaminade engages Piqua and potent Cincinnati Purcell challenges Hamilton Garfield in a Cincinnati doubleheader Friday.

In Class A at Canton, Bridgeport faces Avon in a game matching once-beaten teams and Springfield Local vies against Badger.

Mansfield St. Peter plays Fort Recovery at Bowling Green while Upper Scioto Valley tests Archbold at Toledo.

In a twinbill at Athens, unbeaten Zane Trace opposes Frontier and Portsmouth Clay plays Licking Valley while at Oxford,

Ken Still Wins Citrus Open Cash

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ken Still and Sandy Koufax have something in common beside a personal friendship—they both waited a long time to become winners.

But while Sandy sat on the Dodger bench waiting for his chance, Still bounced around 16 years from job to job before winning his first golf tournament.

Ken's moment finally came Sunday at the $115,000 Citrus Open with a final round 70 for a 72-hole total of 10-under par 278, one stroke ahead of Miller Barber. But it came the hard way.

"It was a peculiar round," Still admitted after accepting the $23,000 first prize. The friendly, 34-year-old bachelor from Tacoma, Wash., said he felt he'd win the tournament after an eight-foot putt for a par 5 on the first hole of the par 72 Rio Pinar Country Club course. But his prediction was premature.

He hit into a lake on the 185th yard, par 3 12th for a double bogey and scrambled for a par 4 at 14 when he found the water again. And at 18 his second shot landed in the gallery.

Colonels Out In ABA Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Louis Dampier and Darel Carrier, a pair of hot-shot, long shots, have moved the Kentucky Colonels from far out into first place in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

Taking full advantage of the ABA's three-point rule for field goals of more than 25 feet out, Dampier poured in 42 points and Carrier 31 as the Colonels tripped Minnesota 118-104 Sunday and replaced Miami in the top spot.

Miami fell all the way to third, one game and 16 percentage points behind Kentucky, by dropping a 128-123 decision to Indiana, which took second, a half game and 11 percentage points back.

Fourth-place Minnesota fell two games behind. In other games, Denver blasted Los Angeles 118-103, New Orleans overcame Houston 116-102 and Oakland pounded the New York Nets 129-104.

On Saturday, Minnesota outlasted Houston 132-129 in two overtimes, Dallas beat Denver 121-111 and New York defeated Los Angeles 120-110.

East, Mansfield Lead Tournament Clashes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Unbeaten Columbus East and powerful Mansfield St. Peter lead 16 teams in each class into regional tournament basketball action this week.

The East express continues on its path to a second straight Class AA championship Saturday with a 79-71 victory over Columbus Linden-McKinley. St. Peter, the defending Class A kingpin, hardly worked up a sweat in a 75-53 romp over Attica.

East and 15 other AA clubs copped district crowns Saturday while nine small school teams also registered triumphs, joining seven other Class A quintets that advanced to regional play with Friday victories.

The sweet sixteen in each division is all that remains from the original field of 833 that started sectional play two weeks ago. By Saturday night, the field will be whittled to four in each class for the state tournament at St. John Arena March 21-22.

East, paced by Ed Ratleff's 35 points, got by stubborn Columbus Linden-McKinley 79-71 for its 45th straight victory, 21 this season. The No. 1 ranked Tigers battle sixth ranked Zanesville Thursday.

Zanesville survived No. 9 East Liverpool's stall when Lee Palmer sank a basket with four seconds remaining for a 52-31 decision. East Liverpool led 27-25 at halftime and stalled away the whole third period. Only 11 shots were taken in the entire second half, four by the winners.

Among the ranked clubs, No. 2 Canton McKinley, beaten only once, crushed Stark County rival Marlinton 87-57. Marlinton, tied for fourth in the rankings with Toledo Libbey, finished 22-1. Libbey had a tougher time but finally subdued Toledo Macomber 53-50. No. 8 Hamilton Garfield, which bowed in the finals to East last year, sidelined Middleton, 72-55, ending the Middies' hopes for an eighth state title.

In other Double-A results, Cleveland St. Joseph stopped Euclid, a state semifinalist last year, 64-61, and Newark ousted No. 10 Columbus South, 77-66.

In small school warfare, unheralded Frontier bombed sixth ranked West Muskingum, 81-57. No. 5 Fort Recovery outlasted No. 8 St. Henry 80-77 and Lincoln Heights, 20-3, moved closer to its second straight state tournament berth with an 85-58 conquest of Greenview.

Five ranked teams in Class AA and four in Class A remain in contention. Regional play is set for Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in seven cities.

In large school competition at Canton, McKinley goes against Akron Central and Cleveland St. Joseph tangles with Youngstown Ursuline. At Toledo, Libbey opposes Berea while Lima Central Catholic takes on Cleveland John Adams at Bowling Green. Newark opposes Portsmouth and Columbus East meets Zanesville in Columbus action while Dayton Chaminade engages Piqua and potent Cincinnati Purcell challenges Hamilton Garfield in a Cincinnati doubleheader Friday.

Army Sacks 28 Bagboys; Loses Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has sacked a squad of grocery bagboys at a nearby post and will replace them with civil servants who will cost the government about $123,000 a year.

The bagboys, part of an anti-poverty group from Washington, were fired after a series of complaints from military housewives who shop at the base supermarket at Ft. Myer, Va.

The shoppers said the boys, mostly high school dropouts with police records from Washington's slum areas, were rude and didn't do their work properly. One woman complained that she found her groceries soaked in vinegar after she corrected a bagboy about his packing.

The bagboys, were paid $1.60 an hour. The pay came partially from tips, with the sponsoring group, the United Planning Organization, making up the difference.

The Army will replace the fired bagboys with 23 civilians to be hired through civil service and paid $2.11 an hour, according to Leonard Sims of the Military District of Washington.

Spokesmen for the anti-poverty group said the problems with the women shoppers weren't all the boys' fault.

"All the boys hadn't been saints and all the customers hadn't been saints," Clifton Flood said, "but I think the wife of somebody important didn't like it and got to the right person."

Two Injured In Accident

Two people were injured in a three-car accident on Route 22 at the intersection of Bolender-Pontious Road about 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

Taken to Berger Hospital for emergency treatment were the drivers of two of the cars, Kathleen Oeltmann, Kentucky, suffering leg and hip injuries; and Leonard Warner, 31, Columbus, suffering injuries to the right shoulder.

Betty Stevens, 30, of 642 E. Mound St., driver of the third car, was not injured.

The Steven's car was east-bound on Route 22 and had stopped to make a left turn, according to a report by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department. The car driven by Mrs. Oeltmann was behind the Stevens car and was unable to stop in time to avoid an accident.

The Oeltmann car struck the Steven's vehicle in the rear and then bounced into the left lane where it struck the oncoming car driven by Warner.

Mrs. Oeltmann was cited by the sheriff's department for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead.

Community Concerts Assn. Schedules Famous Artists

Mr. and Mrs. David Whaley and Mrs. R. E. Knecht represented the Circleville area recently at a dinner meeting for the Community Concerts Assn. at the Lancaster Hotel.

They will be serving as campaign director and captain in the Circleville area this week.

The world's finest artists appear on the Lancaster Community Concert stage. Only the very highest standards qualify an artist or a group to be part of this series.

Dick Schory and his Percussion Pops Orchestra will appear March 22 at the Lancaster High School Auditorium as a bonus concert to new members.

THIS orchestra featuring 20 virtuoso musicians playing over 200 brass, woodwind, string and percussion instruments, is both musically and visually exhilarating. Schory's countless RCA recordings, arrangements, articles, books, clinics and lecture demonstrations have created a trend that others now attempt to follow.

Also scheduled for this season is the Norman Luboff Choir and the Alvin Ailey American Dance Group. There will be at least one other concert in addition this coming season available to members at a modest cost. Members may attend approximately 35 concerts in nearby cities this coming season.

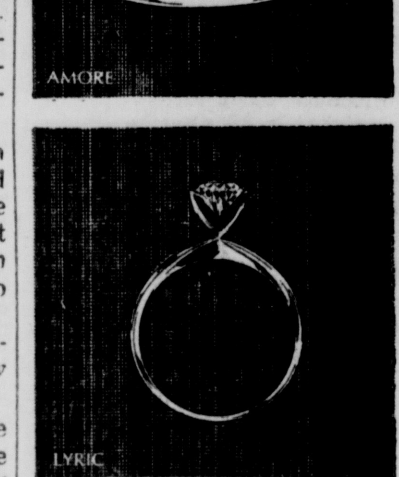

Special student rates are one of the benefits to the plan. The artists are selected from a long list according to the membership money collected during this one week campaign. No ticket is available for a single concert. This is a non-profit organization serving the community with musical entertainment both enjoyable and educational particularly for young people. All students studying music need the advantage of being able to see and hear just how a famous musical artist performs.

Any interested person may contact Whaley at 474-2623, Mrs. Knecht at 474-4469 or Mrs. H. E. Walker at 474-5389.

The Norman Luboff Choir has an amazing repertoire that literally runs from Bach through the blues and thence to Broadway. Their immense vitality and superb musicianship make it small wonder that this group is a Best Seller not only on records but in live and exciting performances as well. The Alvin Ailey American Dance Group recreates Negro heritage and contemporary dance set to classical and spirituals dressed in beautiful costumes.

PREHISTORIC MONSTER—Villagers examine a 10-foot "tusk" of a sea creature that washed up on the beach in Teololula, Mexico. The carcass measured out to 30 feet in length, 18 feet wide and had a "serpent-like" body covered with hard armor. Scientists believe the creature is from the dinosaur age and has been frozen in Arctic ice.

Girl Scout Week Observed Here

March 9 through March 15 has been proclaimed Girl Scout Week throughout the United States.

Fifty-seven years ago on March 12, 1912, Juliette Gordon Low organized the first troop of 12 girls in Savannah, Ga. From this beginning an organization has developed which enriches the lives of over three million young people and the adults who work with them.

Joining in this birthday celebration will be the some 27,000 Girl Scouts of the Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council including the 579 girls and 194 adults of Pickaway County.

This Sunday, the Girl Scouts and their leaders started the week-long celebration by attending their respective churches in uniform to re-affirm their duty to God.

THE motivating force of Girl Scouting is a spiritual one. Girl

Scouting encourages and helps girls to become better members of their own religious groups through its program to inspire them with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism and service.

Girl Scouting today offers girls the extra fun, extra guidance, extra opportunity they need to grow up able, thoughtful and caring enough to meet the problems of tomorrow.

Girl Scouts have discovered that the traditional Seven Service Days of Girl Scout Week provide an excellent opportunity for putting their Promise and Laws into a meaningful relationship with the world in which they live.

Girl Scouts from ages 7 through 17 in grades two through 12 will be busy celebrating their birthday by serving others and finding ways to say "thank you" to our community for its support of their program.

Let us salute the Girl Scouts this week and give them our continued interest, cooperation and support so that increasing numbers of girls may benefit and, in their turn, bring greater benefit to the lives they touch.

Army Sacks 28 Bagboys; Loses Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has sacked a squad of grocery bagboys at a nearby post and will replace them with civil servants who will cost the government about $123,000 a year.

The bagboys, part of an anti-poverty group from Washington, were fired after a series of complaints from military housewives who shop at the base supermarket at Ft. Myer, Va.

The shoppers said the boys, mostly high school dropouts with police records from Washington's slum areas, were rude and didn't do their work properly. One woman complained that she found her groceries soaked in vinegar after she corrected a bagboy about his packing.

The bagboys, were paid $1.60 an hour. The pay came partially from tips, with the sponsoring group, the United Planning Organization, making up the difference.

The Army will replace the fired bagboys with 23 civilians to be hired through civil service and paid $2.11 an hour, according to Leonard Sims of the Military District of Washington.

Spokesmen for the anti-poverty group said the problems with the women shoppers weren't all the boys' fault.

"All the boys hadn't been saints and all the customers hadn't been saints," Clifton Flood said, "but I think the wife of somebody important didn't like it and got to the right person."
